Another great weekend to be on a bicycle. Nine riders rode together on Saturday on an awesome ride which started and finished in the town of Goderich. At the halfway point, Bartliffe's Bakery we all enjoyed a meal - but no baked goods this time (they have amazing cream puffs!). From there we went to Bayfield (had to make our way through some construction) and everyone had a beer at the Black Dog Pub. Each type of draught beer came with it's own glass - we call it carb-loading. From there we went to the beach and cycled onto the pier and to the amazement of bystanders, set our bikes down and jumped into the lake for a short swim. It was truly exhilarating! Only thirty-two more kilometres to the finish where Con and Cindy hosted salty snacks and more drinks. Their neighbours, who had just had their house rebuilt because of last year's tornado, let many of us use their ultra modern shower - very kind people. Spouses then joined our group and we headed to the Park House restaurant for dinner before we called it a day.

And that - that is randonneuring "Huron Style". We hope you will join us next time.
